

February 2021 Students of the Month

English- Maia Alick

“Maia Alick has been selected because she demonstrates the character attributes of a hard working, dedicated student. Her academics are important and she has been a high honor roll student for both the first and second marking period. The Academy program requires students to have a strong knowledge base and a work ethic, which Maia displays each and every day. Maia contributes to the class discussions and is always willing to ask questions, which is so important to everyone’s learning experience. Maia always brings a positive attitude and enthusiasm to class especially when she participates in the Spirit Week! It is my pleasure to recognize Maia this month and I am sure her peers will join me in congratulating her and wish her continued success in the coming years.”-Mrs. Vandigriff

Math- Jack Orlando

“I would like to nominate Jack Orlando as the Math Student of the Month for February. Jack is currently a freshman in my Algebra 1CP class. He is so attentive, completes all work, and asks insightful questions. In addition, he always participates during remote learning and is always willing to demonstrate problems. Jack is just a pleasure to work with and have in class!”-Ms. Ajaj

Social Studies- Kimberly Barbieri

“Kim has done an outstanding job in U.S. II Honors during a very difficult time. Her writing is insightful, her classwork is completed meticulously, and her performance on summative assessments is near perfect.”- Mr. Eastman

Science- Jack Orlando

“Jack is highly involved in class and always takes an interest in what we are doing. He participates and asks questions and always completes assignments to the best of his ability. Jack is a pleasure to have in class.”-Mr. Bruseo

Music- Nino DeNino

“Nino has made tremendous progress as a singer over the past 2 years. He has not been singing for very long, but has such a passion for it. I am inspired by his dedication and passion for music and it has been a pleasure to have his participation not only in Concert Choir, but also Chamber

Choir, Men's Ensemble, Madrigal, and the Musical. He has turned into a real leader within the Bass section and has become someone the other basses look up to. His active participation, funny jokes, and enthusiasm are exactly what my virtual classes need right now. Keep up the great work!" - Mr. Flynn

Health/PE- Dylan Martell

"Dylan has been selected as a student of the month for Health/PE for many reasons. In a year where participation in class has been hard to come by, Dylan has always been ready and able to contribute in class. During our class discussions in health, I can always count on Dylan to provide insightful answers, regardless of the topic. He tends to be the student in class who will initiate a conversation after a question has been presented to the class, leading to more students willing to take part. Dylan has been a pleasure to have in class and I look forward to continued dialogue throughout the remainder of our health class and through the rest of the year."-Mr. Thide

World Language- Ainesh Gobind

"Ainesh is a kind, courteous student who consistently demonstrates a genuine interest in learning a new language. He can always be counted upon to participate, virtual or in person. He provides valuable input during class discussions and activities. I'm very pleased to have him in our class this year."-Mr. Quinn

Business- Nino DeNino

"Nino is currently a student in Marketing 1 and is a DECA member. Nino completes all of his work on time and participates fully in class. Nino competed at DECA Regionals and has qualified and recently participated in the State Competition. Nino plans to major in the business field when he graduates. He is a pleasure to have in class and exhibits amazing work ethic."-Mrs. Kwiecinski

Technology- Joseph Sporer

"In CAD class, Joe demonstrates his creative and technical design skills. When presented with a design challenge, Joe spends the time to research and brainstorms his ideas that he transforms into CAD designs. He is collaborative in class and willingly shares his knowledge with his peers."-Mr. Nicholas

Art- Madeline Balogh

“Madeline has been chosen as the student of the month because she consistently exemplifies the creativity needed to pursue a career in art. She is not only talented, but she works hard and takes pride in all that she does.”-Mrs. Simler

English- Arianna Rodriguez

“Arianna is an active participant in class. She diligently completes all of her assignments. She works to the best of her ability. She receives excellent grades. She is an excellent role model to her peers. She is polite and cooperative with her teachers. Arianna is a pleasure to have in class.”- Ms. Mason
